

Missouri Department of Corrections

Mission Statement

The Department of Corrections with victims, communities and state and local government improves public safety through secure confinement and effective community interventions. Through our cooperative efforts to provide effective correctional services, we hold offenders accountable for their behavior and prepare them to be productive citizens.

Message from the Director:

Ad Excelleum Conamur – "We Strive Towards Excellence." That slogan is at the top of every letter that is mailed from the Missouri Department of Corrections. In 2007, excellence was a key theme for the Department.

Governor Matt Blunt presented the Governor's Award for Quality and Productivity (GAQP) to the Offender Fraud Committee in October 2007, just seven months after I accepted the committee's recommendation for a ban on inmates soliciting pen pals on Internet sites. The committee's findings resulted in several changes in the Department's operations. Increased vigilance has resulted in the confiscation of thousands of dollars from offenders to pay for the cost of their incarceration, when it was determined those funds had been obtained through misrepresentation and solicitation on websites. Governor Blunt also presented the GAQP to the Smart Lease Vehicle Program Team. Blunt presented an efficiency award to the Department of Corrections and several Departments involved in the Smart Lease Vehicle Program. Smart Lease has saved 43 percent in travel costs by replacing business miles paid through mileage reimbursement with state vehicles.

The Missouri Reentry Process (MRP) is the envy of the nation. Citing MRP, Governor Blunt presented the Service Excellence Award to the Department of Corrections at the 2007 Governor's Conference on Economic Development in Springfield. I take pride in the progress of MRP and am committed to this philosophical change in the way we do business. This award should be dedicated to all staff in the Department of Corrections and the Department of Economic Development who dedicate their time to ensuring that offenders are prepared for the workforce when they are released into our communities. I also commend Division of Adult Institutions Director Tom Clements and Department Reentry Manager Julie Boehm for a successful 2007 pilot project at two prisons. Kiosks were established at Algoa Correctional Center in Jefferson City and at Western Reception, Diagnostic and Correctional Center in St. Joseph, which allowed offenders to work on Great Hires, the official Workforce Resource website for the state. One hundred and ninety-two offenders used the kiosks at both sites, which meant more appointments at career centers and more full-time jobs. That translates into increased public safety and reduced recidivism rates. In 2008, the Department plans to build kiosks in nine additional institutions that have Transitional Housing Units.

Probation and Parole (P&P) demonstrates excellence each day. Probation and Parole officers held offenders accountable to complete restorative justice orders in Fiscal Year 2007, resulting in offenders performing 300,620 hours of community service and paying $10,938,288 in restitution back to victims. P&P is a key component of Reentry. The recidivism rate in FY 2007 for offenders released from a transitional housing unit is eight percent better after one year from release than others.

Americans throughout the nation learned about Missouri's Restorative Justice program in October 2007. An Associated Press St. Louis Correspondent traveled to Southeast Correctional Center (SECC) in Charleston to profile the garden. The produce from that garden is donated to the Bootheel Food Bank in Sikeston, which serves 16 counties. The AP story was published in many Missouri newspapers, as well as "USA Today" and the "Boston Globe." SECC staff received letters from people as far away as Massachusetts, praising the program.

Finally, I commend your hard work and dedication. You contribute daily to public safety. You also have open hearts and are generous to those in need. In 2007, Missouri Department of Corrections staff donated nearly $150,000 to the Missouri State Employees Charitable Campaign (MSECC). Department employees have been the leader of the campaign donations in six of the last eight years.

Sincerely,

Larry Crawford

2007 Year in review

Gov. Blunt Recommends Funding to Support New Prison

One year after attending the groundbreaking ceremony for the new Chillicothe Correctional Center (CCC), Gov. Matt Blunt returned to Chillicothe to announce that funding for the new prison will be one of his budget priorities for 2008. Speaking at an Oct. 24, 2007, event outside the old prison, Blunt announced he will recommend increased funding to support the prison operations, including about 300 new jobs for the area. Blunt also announced he will recommend an approximately $14 million increase in the fiscal year 2009 budget for the Missouri Department of Corrections. Department Director Larry Crawford said the new prison will improve safety and security for the public, staff and offenders. Missouri's female prison population has increased by 150 percent during the past 10 years. Missouri had 1,071 female prisoners in fiscal year 1996. In fiscal year 2006, that number had increased to 2,522. The existing operating capacity of CCC is 525. Capacity for the new CCC will be 1,636. Blunt proposed issuing $120 million in revenue bonds for the new prison during his January 2006 State of the State Address.

Gov. Blunt Recognizes DOC/DED Partnership

Citing the Missouri Reentry Process (MRP), Gov. Matt Blunt presented the Service Excellence Award to the Missouri Department of Corrections at the 2007 Governor's Conference on Economic Development in Springfield. The award was presented on August 29, 2007, for the partnership between the Department of Corrections and the Division of Workforce Development (DWD). The Service Excellence Award was presented to the MRP to recognize collaborative excellence by a group of partners who have formed strategic alliances and designed service excellence initiatives that have effectively served unique populations in the workforce system and developed non-traditional pipelines to enhance economic opportunities for hard-to-serve populations. Upon the adoption of the Transition from Prison to Community Model four years ago, Corrections recognized the importance of establishing a relationship with the Department of Economic Development (DED). Over time, strategies have been implemented to enhance this partnership. Department of Corrections staff from the Transitional Housing Units and Probation and Parole have been trained on the Division of Workforce Development Toolbox and case notes systems to assist with offender case management. DOC institutional staff refers offenders to the Missouri Career Centers in the area the offender will be residing prior to release. The career centers offer case management, career counseling, computer and job skills training and job search assistance.

More than 100 Attend Hannibal CSC Ribbon-Cutting Ceremony

Missouri officials and county and local leaders joined Department of Corrections Director Larry Crawford and Probation and Parole (P&P) Board Chairman Steve Long for the ribbon-cutting ceremony for the Hannibal Community Supervision Center (CSC). The event was held on December 14, 2007. Missouri's Probation and Parole Board has now finished three CSCs: Hannibal, Farmington and St. Joseph. Community Supervision Centers are designed to decrease the prisoner growth rate by working to insure that only chronic, violent and repeat offenders are incarcerated in Missouri's 20 state prisons. They serve as transitional housing units where offenders are required to work, attend school, attend treatment and fulfill other obligations ordered by the Board or the courts.

IFI Grand Opening at Algoa

Highlighting the importance of reentry and public safety, Missouri Corrections officials, State Rep. Danielle "Danie" Moore (R-Fulton) InnerChange Freedom Initiative (IFI) staff and offender participants gathered for the grand opening celebration of the IFI at Jefferson City's Algoa Correctional Center Chapel. The event was held June 25, 2007. IFI debuted at Algoa on March 1, 2007. IFI teaches life skills like computer classes and resume workshops, as well as pro-social skills. Inmates applying for the program are within 18-24 months of release and must be willing to participate in values-based Christian programming. IFI emphasizes six core values: integrity, responsibility, restoration, community, affirmation and productivity. On June 3, 2007, IFI launched its first women's program in Missouri at the Women's Eastern Reception, Diagnostic and Correctional Center (WERDCC) in Vandalia. IFI currently operates in six states: Missouri, Texas, Kansas, Iowa, Minnesota and Arkansas.

Missouri Department of Corrections Director Larry Crawford signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) between the Department and the Missouri Veterans Commission. The MOU was signed January 19, 2007, during a Jefferson City ceremony. The MOU includes the Veterans Commission assisting incarcerated veterans in applying for services while housed in a Transitional Housing Unit (THU). Information about veteran benefits are also provided to offenders under probation or parole supervision. The Department is identifying veterans who are in the THU's, and the Veterans Commission is assisting them with applications and other paperwork. Crawford and Reentry Manager Julie Boehm note the agreement ties in well with the Missouri Reentry Process Mission, which calls for integrating "successful offender reentry principles and practices in state agencies and communities resulting in partnerships that enhance offender self-sufficiency, reduce incarceration, and improve public safety."
